

WE NOMINATE

Henry Bates Ross, one of the Princeton Community's long-visioned educators, who — following a remarkable decade of service — is retiring from his "second career" as a Princetonian deeply concerned with the problems of "tooling up" education to confront the demands of the present and future. Where 11 years ago the soft-spoken Ross "stepped down" after some 30 years of association with the Princeton Country Day School, this week, at age 62, he wrote "finis" to his contributions as National Representative of the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation, which has done more than any other organization in recruiting young people of promise for the profession of teaching and scholarship.

During his years with the Wilson Fellowship Foundation, Ross built up and maintained over 1,100 Woodrow Wilson Campus Representatives on some 1,050 campuses in this country and Canada. These Representatives, both faculty members and administrators, serve without pay, and perform all kinds of duties such as telling candidates about the Wilson competition, advising them about graduate school choices and often serving as "apostles of excellence." In the opinion of one associate, Ross' intimate knowledge of "virtually every campus, combined with his being liked by just about everyone he meets, made him the perfect man for the job."

Ross, the New York-born son of a British naval officer and the grandson of a president of Aberdeen University, was educated in Scotland, England and Canada, and understandably became the Wilson Foundation's "Canadian Ambassador." According to one spokesman, "there is little going on in higher education in Canada that he doesn't know and there are few people in higher education in Canada whom he doesn't know." Consequently, in the space of a single year, the share of Canadians in the continent-wide Wilson Fellowship Program, founded in Princeton in 1915 and subsequently expanded with Ford Foundation support, "shot up from 4 per cent to 9 per cent, an incredible leap."

Whether as Headmaster of the erstwhile P.C.D., today an integral part of the Princeton Day School, or with the Wilson Foundation, Ross has relished participating in new approaches and programs. The latest of his achievements has been his role in developing a "grass roots humanities program" which will enable the Wilson Fellowship Program, with a major grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities, to "carry the message of the humanities" to all parts of the country, using almost any conceivable combination of an art show, slides or movie clips, or lectures by nationally recognized authorities.

In his 11 years as the guiding-force in P.C.D. even more impressive than the cold statistics of growth were his accomplishments in the sphere of "intangibles" — spirit, insistence on high standards and mental discipline. For instance, he pioneered in the evolution of an excellent hobby and crafts program, bringing students and faculty into close contact. Such developments were skillfully used as the underpinning for the "core curriculum" — English, foreign languages, history, the humanities and science and sound preparation for the future.

For looking upon each "retirement" as an opportunity for renewal; for understanding that American youth, whatever his age, is "still a combination of Tom Sawyer and Penrod — but in the Space Age;" for insisting that the "fractured prose of 1969" is something best forgotten; he is TOWN TOPICS nominee as

This Is Princeton

A WARNING
From School Board Member. In words that were blunt and sharp at the same time, school board vice president William Marvel this week warned:

"The future of Princeton schools is at stake. If the situation doesn't change next year, we'll be in danger of delivering our schools over to the enemies of enlightened education—and I can't emphasize this strongly enough, Dr. Marvel, who emphasized that he spoke for himself and not the board, talked with the press at an informal conference he called on Monday. The school board president, Dr. John Marks, is away for the summer.

At the same time, Dr. Marvel answered three persons who spoke in the heat of last Tuesday's board meeting.

All three comments had been made in reference to the board's choice for principal of Princeton High School, Raymond F. Male. Mr. Male was denied certification by the state board of education's board of examiners, and therefore had to be rejected as a candidate for the principal's job.

• "You had 85 applicants for the job, and only one was acceptable?"
Answer: "Yes—that is correct," Dr. Marvel stated. "Ray Male was the only candidate with the substantial support of the board. Most of us—in fact, seven out of the nine members—felt that he was the only candidate who presented an exciting picture of what he wanted to do at PHS."

No "diatribe" of plans was presented, Dr. Marvel explained, but Mr. Male discussed with the board his commitment over the years to vocational education; to constructive out-of-school ways to keep young people occupied; to "outreaching experience," using the whole community, including industry and government, as a lab for education; to utilization of other buildings in the community to relieve over-crowding at PHS.

Dr. Marvel also said that a few candidates were out of the question because they wanted as much as $10,000 more than the board felt it could pay. Another candidate, Dr. Marvel said, was vehemently and totally opposed by both black members of the school board. Since these two members, Mrs. Kathleen Edwards and the Rev. C. Shelby Hooks, do not always agree on many things, the fact that they agreed so firmly against this candidate was significant.

• "The superintendent took (the board) down a path that led nowhere, allowing an uncertain candidate to be pursued despite the strong objections of several board members."

Answer: "In January, Superintendent McPherson suggested that he and a teachers' committee agree on a single nomination to present to the board," Dr. Marvel explained.

A TIME FOR UNITY: William W. Marvel, Vice President of the Board of Education, warns of the tragic consequences facing Princeton's Region 1 Schools if existing divisiveness is not ended.

"The board insisted on having a voice in the selection. So Mrs. Edwards and Mrs. George Ferguson of the board agreed to meet with the candidates. With the teachers' representatives, members of the administration and students' representatives this makes four groups which met and screened the candidates. It was not solely the superintendent at all."

From this screening came seven top candidates, Dr. Marvel continued. Most of these were interviewed by many board members as possible and by the groups named above.

"We turned up very few people who excited the board," Dr. Marvel commented.

He explained that, if Mr. Male had been certified, the board wouldn't have had to prepare its position ahead of its public vote on Mr. Male. As it was, the board had to decide ahead of time, and in private, whether it wanted to authorize Superintendent McPherson to request certification.

The board's 7-2 vote, therefore, was on the question, "Should we authorize Dr. McPherson to approach the state on Ray Male?" It was not a formal vote on Mr. Male. That vote would have had to take place in a public meeting, as required by law.

• "The board tried to ram only one candidate down our throats."

Answer: "It wouldn't have been fair to the other candidates, to the losers, to parade them publicly," Dr. Marvel explained, "especially when some were eliminated right at the start because they simply wanted too much money."

Mr. Male, incidentally, did not apply for the job. His name was suggested by one of Princeton residents who had known him for many years, Dr. Marvel said. "We were surprised that he was interested."

Dr. Marvel observed that people around town "didn't seem to be riled up against Mr. Male." The board received, maybe, three letters on his candidacy.

Male Appeal?

The Princeton Regional School Board hasn't decided whether to appeal the state's decision not to grant certification to Raymond F. Male, the board's candidate for principal of Princeton High School.

Appeal would be made, said board vice president William Marvel, to Carl L. Marburger, state education commissioner. Since Mr. Marburger was a strong supporter of Mr. Male's certification, he would presumably decide in favor of the Princeton board.

Then, if the NJEA in turn appealed Commissioner Marburger's decision, the matter could then be taken to the state board of education and eventually to the courts, Dr. Marvel says.

(Teachers at PHS, said a former officer of the PSEA, were distressed at Mr. Male's lack of certification, but Mrs. Ruth Randall, president of PSEA, said the organization didn't plan to take any stand on him, either for or against.)

In Trenton, however, the forces of the New Jersey Education Association were powerfully "against" Dr. Marvel said that he, school board president John Marks and superintendent McPherson presented the case for Mr. Male to the state board of examiners.

At that meeting, Dr. Marvel said, he warned that high schools might be next in line for student revolt and he said "we must think of new answers."

He suggested that reaching outside boundaries could bring new strength into an organization, and he added that it was somewhat ridiculous to brand as "unqualified" an administrator like Mr. Male with 16 years of experience in public administration.

Pressure from the NJEA, however, wiped out the arguments of Messrs. Marvel, Marks and McPherson and Mr. Male was denied his certificate.

(Four days after the Male decision, the NJEA called for abolition of the certification appeals committee that had unanimously recommended approval of Mr. Male to the board of examiners.)

The committee, said the NJEA, lacks responsibility or accountability and a sense of obligation toward recognizing minimum guarantees or proficiency among those upon whom it passes.

NJEA representatives also charged political motivations in appointing Mr. Male. He is commissioner of labor and industry, and may be out of that job when Governor Richard Hughes leaves the State House at the end of this year.

"When you consider the political pressures brought by the NJEA," Dr. Marvel observed, "it's quite an irony to hear them talk about political motivations."

Future? Turning back to the future of Princeton's schools, Dr. Marvel said that every one on the school board felt "very considerable consternation" about the tumult of last Tuesday's meeting.

"It was an unhappy finale to a year of suspicion, travail and negativity," he observed, "and I'm afraid we've developed a habit here in Princeton of thinking of our schools that way."

Dr. Marvel addressed him self to what he calls "the great silent, moderate majority of parents and citizens" and urged this broad and unorganized community to support the school board and help it go ahead.

He said that "nicking away" at the superintendent, carrying on carping arguments in public between board members, may play into the hands of people who are "enemies of enlightened education."

"And maybe you don't think we've got a perfect human being for superintendent," Dr. Marvel said, "but if Dr. McPherson gets disgraced and

Police Seek Driver

In connection with the hit-and-run death of a North Brunswick man last week (story this page), Township Police would appreciate hearing from anyone with any information on the accident.

This would include any motorists driving on lower Nassau Street around 1 a.m. last Friday or any residents living on Nassau near Snowden Lane.

The police would also like to hear from the driver of the car following directly behind the Suburban Trans. Bus traveling on lower Nassau from New York to Princeton at about this time. The driver pulled over to the shoulder area of the road.

leaves, what kind of man will the next superintendent be? The one who's willing to come in a school system like this? Pondering the present situation on the school board, Dr. Marvel said, "I'm optimistic; I think we can re-knit ourselves as a board."

He said that the Rev. C. Shelby Rooks had drawn on his experience as a minister to suggest that the board go off for a two-day "retreat," as some religious groups do.

"I like that idea," Dr. Marvel agreed. "The board needs to talk over its problems, talk out its relationship to the superintendent, and develop sound internal guidelines. Then we could invite the superintendent in, and talk it out with him."

Questions the board must ask, he proposed, are "How can we support our superintendent without rubber-stamping his ideas?" "How should we behave toward each other?"

BUILD A SCHOOL HERE?

Public Hearing Set. The school board would like to have a three-lot parcel of land on Snowden Lane formally marked on the Township Master Plan map as a future school site.

A public hearing on the question will be held Monday, July 14 at 8 p.m. in Township Hall.

The parcel is identified by the name Hall-Hudson because ownership divided between Mr. and Mrs. Holmes Hudson, and two Hall sisters — Miss Molly Hall and Mrs. T. B. Fisher.

Actually, the Planning Board has been told by its lawyers that it doesn't really have to hold the public hearing at all. The land eyed by the school is in a section of the Township already marked on the Master Plan map, in a general way, as a possible area where a school might be built.

MAN IS VICTIM

Of Hit and Run Accident. Joseph Miller, 27, of North Brunswick, was found lying in the middle of Nassau Street at 1:12 a.m. Friday morning, the apparent victim of a hit-and-run accident.

A passing motorist spotted the victim lying on Snowden about 400 feet east of Snowden Lane and notified Sgt. Robert Anderson and P.O. Anthony Ranfone in a Borough patrol car. Borough Police called and an ambulance and notified Township Police. Miller was dead on arrival at Princeton Hospital.

Township police believe the victim may have been side-swiped, which may have damaged the vehicle that struck him on the left front and left side.

OLD BUILDINGS FOR NEW
Plans Revealed. Two Princeton institutions have plans which could change the face of the Borough — and shift the balance of its tax rolls.

The Princeton Savings and Loan Association told the Borough Planning Board Tuesday night it hopes to buy the 130-132 Nassau Street building that now houses Dr. Nathan Kessel, optometrist; The Wright Store and Luttman's.

The building, owned by John F. Hoff, would either be torn down to make room for a new structure, or remodeled to provide a larger home for the savings and loan organization. Its present office is 19 Chambers St.

Red Cross. The Princeton chapter of the American Red Cross wants to buy the house at 7 Madison Street and some adjoining land on the private street known as Branch Avenue.

In one of those coincidental happenings that occur in small towns, Mr. Hoff, owner of 130-132 Nassau, came to the planning Board meeting to speak for the Red Cross.

He told the board that the present Red Cross building at 71 University Place, is leased from Princeton University under a lease which expires August 1. The University does not wish to renew.

Mayor Henry S. Patterson had just heard a Princeton University spokesman say the University "hasn't decided yet" whether taxes would be paid on One Bayard Lane, the "Palmer House" now owned by the University, and the mayor was in no mood to hear about possible additional tax losses.

"I am deeply concerned," he

PETER PAUL AND MARY: These white Alsatian puppies look more like a tumble of clean white bath-towels than a trio of folk-singers, but that's the roll-call: Peter, Paul and Mary. The pups belong to Mr. and Mrs. Richard H. Hughes, 183 Edgerstone Road. The stately mother is Milti, the affectionate father (he's nursing Susan Hughes) is Johann Sebastian Bach, known as Saba, after a Caribbean island the Hughes are fond of. The Hughes are enthusiastic Alsatian fans, and anybody who wants to know more about the breed is invited to call 324-9797. (Marie Bellie Photo) said, "I urge the Red Cross to re-consider buying property which would then be removed from the Borough's tax rolls."

Lawyer Samuel Lambert III had told the board the Red Cross plans to ask the Zoning Board for a conditional use permit in the R-4 residential zone as a "philanthropic institution." Translated, this means "no taxes."

When Mr. Hoff began to defend the Red Cross, citing such community services as free blood, Mayor Patterson cut him short. "You provide those services also to surrounding municipalities — to people in the Township, in Montgomery Township and so on — why shouldn't those towns you serve share our tax loss?"

"Organizations like the Red Cross and churches are innocently asking for it," the mayor warned, "and it may come to Federal court decisions on whether they should be tax free."

Actually, all the Red Cross wanted was some advice on the number of parking spaces and on traffic flow. The flow of traffic was channeled to the Traffic Safety Committee. And the mayor emphasized that he certainly didn't want to make a Federal case of it himself.

Besides, the additional tax revenue that could come from new or spruced-up 130-132 Nassau would soften the bite.

Bayard Lane. The University wants to use "Palmer House" as a guest house for an average of 6-7 and a maximum of 20 — 25 University visitors. They would be given sleeping accommodations, and light breakfast only. No meals. No big dinners: these are planned for renovated "Prospect" on campus.

The University came before the board for site plan review. Because the stately gateway to One Bayard Lane gives on both Bayard and Nassau, traffic was a matter of anxious concern.

The University plans to use the present gate as an entrance only. A continuation entrance exit will be farther down Bayard Lane.

"That's a valuable piece of real-estate," observed Arthur Morgan of the board. "You plan to sub divide it ever?"

Frank Reiche, University counsel, said no. Questioned about taxes by Mayor Patterson, he said he didn't know, and added "the University hasn't decided yet."

The University did pay Borough taxes on "Lorrie House" when it was a guest house, according to the mayor. He told Mr. Reiche that the Borough does not regard "Palmer House" as an educational institution.

Bellevue. The shop at the corner of Nassau and Moore wants to tear down its rear "Tree House" and build Red — Continued on Next Page

With a capacity of 112 beds, the Princeton Nursing Home is equipped to provide convalescent care for patients who will return to their normal lives; rehabilitation for the disabled and care for the chronically ill.

The Early American theme has been used in decorating the large visiting room on the first floor, and the dining room. The second and third floors each have recreation rooms with color TV, games or quiet areas for relaxation. Each floor has a small kitchenette.

Private and semi-private rooms have "hilo beds" in individual air-conditioning and individual locked closets and chests of drawers for each guest. Separate outlets are available for TV and telephone.

lows all the way to the northern lot line.

The owners also want to abandon a 200-ft. apartment above the main store, leaving the space unused. This would ease parking requirements under the zoning law; if you don't have apartments, you don't have to count them in when you calculate the parking spaces you need.

"At what point do we stop making it hard for people to find apartments in Princeton?" the mayor demanded. "I don't like the idea of kicking four people out of town because the apartment space is needed to fill parking requirements."

A C. Reeves Hicks, lawyer for Lee Bellows, owner of the shop, said, "Mr. Bellows is a retailer, not a landlord." He added that it wasn't just parking Mr. Bellows and the architect want to eliminate the apartment entrance and stairwell to make a larger, more modern shop.

Mr. Bellows said he'd go along with an apartment entrance somewhere else in the building, if that could be arranged. "It is our mission to serve Princeton," he commented. "To do it, we need a bigger and better store."

The Bellows case goes back to the zoning board for its July 31 meeting. The University's One Bayard Lane "Palmer House" is before the zoning board for a conditional use permit.

MRS. LUMMIS NAMED

To Riverside Interim. Mrs. Dorothea Lummis has been named acting principal of Riverside School. The appointment, effective July 1, will terminate approximately February 1, when the new principal, Mrs. Edith Scott, is scheduled to arrive.

A member of the Princeton school system since 1949, Mrs. Lummis has been curriculum coordinator since the 1960 merger of Borough and Township schools. She will continue in this capacity during the next months at Riverside, with the assistance of other principals in the district.

Mrs. Lummis joined the staff of the Borough's old Nassau Street School in 1949 as a teacher in the elementary grades. She was principal of the school from 1959 until 1965. She was graduated from West Chester Teachers College in Pennsylvania and earned her master's degree at the University of Pennsylvania. She holds a Professional Diploma from Teachers College-Columbia University and has done additional graduate work at Trent State and Rutgers.

Her husband is Archie Lummis, an assistant cashier at the First National Bank of Princeton. The Lummises live at 514 Mercer Road.

Tomorrow night.

The posters advertising Palmer Stadium's annual Independence Day fireworks display list two rain dates. Hopes are that neither will be needed, but Friday forecast indicates that such insurance may be advisable.

The pleasantly cool weather which arrived early Wednesday will last through Thursday, the Man reports, but the Fourth is expected to be cloudy, humid and possibly wet. A clear weekend, however, should follow.

APPEALS DENIED

By Zoning Board. Plans to add a fourth office floor to the Pickering Building on Chambers Street were stymied last week, when the Borough Zoning Board denied a variance sought by the owners from the off-street parking requirements. The extra floor would have required ten more parking slots.

The board stated that the Chambers' Street area is among the most congested in the Borough, and that the availability of parking spaces, not only on the street but in the private and public lots as well was limited.

Another plan by the applicants, whereby the necessary spaces would be created by parking cars in entrance and exit lanes and hiring an attendant to move the cars, was also rejected.

In another case, Barry Snyder was turned down in his request to operate a fine arts gallery at 19 Vandewater Avenue. The previous owner, Ardis Leigh, had been granted permission by the board to operate an antique shop there by appointment.

The board noted that prevailed upon the situation that Mr. Leigh received his variance, property in the neighborhood opposed the application of Mr. Snyder. It also felt that the art gallery would be an expansion of the limited commercial use permitted Mr. Leigh.

The board also announced one operational change. Henceforth, all applications must be filed within 15 days prior to the meeting, instead of the former 10 days.

PETITION SEEKS BAN On Sex Education. Petitions demanding a ban on sex education courses and sensitivity training in New Jersey's public schools are being circulated in Mercer County by a parents' group. A rally held at Central Baptist Church in Ewing Township Monday night drew more than 100 persons from surrounding communities, including Princeton, many of whom added their names to the petition.

Gordon Whitney, dean of the Trenton Bible Institute, organizer of the rally, said about 150 signatures had already been obtained prior to Monday night's meeting. The petition seeks a law banning all sex education instruction, except the teaching of personal hygiene. Teachers violating the law would be discharged.

Mr. Whitney said sex teaching invades the area of religion, because it involves biblical outlooks and values. The "new morality" is a religion of "sex hedonism," cursed by venerable al disease, illegitimate children, divorce and abortion. Mercer County Assemblyman William E. Schlatter described for those present three measures affecting sex education that are currently in the legislature. He is cosponsoring an assembly resolution calling for a legislative investigation of State Department of Education guidelines and policies on sex education.

Another resolution calls for a moratorium on new sex education programs until the legislative study is completed, while a third would allow parents to have their children excused from sex education classes.

Mr. Schlatter said later he does not favor the total ban on sex education proposed in the petition, but rather that schools should present basic information on venereal disease, abortion and reproduction "in a scientific, matter-of-fact way."

WILL BOROUGH APPEAL? No Decision on Sheehan. The Borough hasn't yet decided whether to file an appeal in the Timothy Sheehan case, but Mayor Henry S. Patterson said this week that a decision would probably be made by next Tuesday.

Superior Court Judge Frank Kingfield ruled on June 19 that the Borough had to give Mr. Sheehan a building permit for the office building he has started on the corner of Nassau and Markham Road. Mr. Sheehan obtained his building permit under the Borough's old zoning ordinance. A clause in the new zoning law cancelled all building permits as of last November 23, but Mr. Sheehan went ahead anyway and began excavations for his new building.

POLICE TO ENFORCE BAN On Firecrackers. Lt. Fred Porter of the Township has announced that the police will not tolerate illegal fireworks at the annual Palmer Stadium display Friday evening.

"We had a little trouble last year," he said. "Some spectators were burned by cherry bombs and firecrackers that were thrown in the stadium. We made several confiscations."

Lt. Porter said the stadium would be well patrolled by police and plain clothesmen to enforce the ban.

guard against any recurrence. "Anyone caught entering the stadium with any type of fireworks will be dealt with according to the law. We also request that smoke bombs and sparklers not be brought to the stadium."

Penalties for violators are stiff. State laws provides for a maximum fine of $10,000 or a year in jail or both.

The law says "It shall be unlawful to manufacture, sell, transport or use dangerous fireworks within the state." It describes "fireworks" as any combustible or explosive composition . . . prepared for the purpose of producing a visible or audible effect by combustion, explosion or detonation.

DEMOCRATS AT WORK

In Summer Campaign. Traffic control, housing, youth and keeping that tax bill in line while you try to improve the town — these are concerns that Democrats say have been voiced in the Township during recent summer campaigning.

Mrs. Golda Gottlieb and Richard Bergman, candidates for Township Committee on the Democratic ticket, have been attending the traditional coffee hours — presumably local coffee — in private homes, meeting between 15 and 40 Township residents each stop. Hosts have been Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Blanc, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Gershen, Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon Hackney and Mr. and Mrs. Warren Huff.

RIVER ROAD TO CLOSE

For Four Months. River Road in Princeton Township will be closed Monday at 4 a.m. between its intersection with Route 27 and Herrington Road for four months, in connection with work being done on the new Kingston Bridge.

Both directions of River Road traffic will be detoured around the intersection on Herrington Road and Snowden Lane, William T. Allen, Department engineer, explained. Route 27 traffic will be maintained on the highway with little or no interference. The detour will remain in effect until early October.

The intersection work is part of a $936,000, quarter-mile project to eliminate a hazardous curve and narrow bridges over the Millstone River and Delaware and Raritan Canal. The project calls for building a replacement highway along new alignment from Route 27 west of River Road to Route 27 east of the Canal in Franklin Township, Somerset County, and South Brunswick Township, Middlesex County. A portion of the old highway will be retained for historical purposes, as the Millstone River Bridge dates back to 1789.

In addition, a structural pipe arch will be built under Route 27 between the canal and river to permit pedestrian access from one recreational area to another. The recreation areas will be developed at a later date by the state's Department of Conservation and Economic Development.

Old Route 27 has two ten foot travel lanes with narrow shoulders. The relocated highway will provide two 12-foot travel lanes and a ten-foot shoulder.

Costs of the highway construction, which is expected to be completed by June, 1970, will be borne entirely by the state. Questions may be directed to Mr. Allen, 921-3232.

POLICE REPORT

Several Burglaries Listed. Thieves were active during the past week, breaking into four places in the Borough, but coming away with only $25 and a record player for their troubles.

A small safe in the snack bar of the Theological Seminary yielded the $25 after it was pried open sometime between 3:30 p.m. on Friday and 6:45 a.m. Monday. Police reported no signs of forced entry into the snack bar itself. Sgt. Ralph Procaccino and Sgt. Arthur Gallant investigated.

The record player was taken from the nursery of the Dorchester House, 120 John Street. Entry to the building was gained sometime between 2:10 p.m. on Saturday and 3:11 p.m. on Sunday, by prying open french doors. Efforts to force open a vending machine failed.

The Food Mart, 20 Witherspoon Street, and the Houghton Building, 221 Witherspoon, were targets of two more breaking and enterings Friday night or early Saturday morning. A blunt instrument was used on the rear door of the Food Mart, but attempts to enter proved unsuccessful.

A small pane of glass on a rear door put up less resistance at the Houghton Building, enabling the intruder to gain entrance, but nothing was reported taken.

Mrs. Solomon, who formerly taught English in the Middle School, has been assigned full-time to her new duties. She will be the only appointed member of a Co-ordinating Council which will consist of people elected by participants in the Wednesday Program. Last year, she served as chairman of the Wednesday Council.

sitivity Training if they voluntarily join groups led by responsible trainers, with minds open to the possibility of change in their own attitudes and behavior."

Baseball for Every Boy.
To the Editor of Two Topics: I feel Princeton has two (not one) programs open to "all boys." The P.B.A. summer program is open to all boys, ages 9-12 if they reside in Princeton or attend Princeton schools.

The league operates eight varsity teams, sponsored by local organizations. Each team has five regular players and two substitutes. It is true that when these 136 regular positions are filled, the remaining boys are "cut" from the varsity teams. However, these boys are not dropped from the program.

Every Saturday morning during the season a well supervised baseball school is run at Marquand Park. This program includes instruction and inter-quad games. The program has been expanded in recent years to include seven and eight year olds.

The P.B.A., with volunteer coaches from sponsoring organizations, has run this program for eleven years at no expense to any boy or his parents. The sponsors supply men and uniforms and the P.B.A. all the equipment and player insurance.

The league also feels that every boy should play in every game. Rather than "try" to win, we have adopted a rule stating that each boy play at least two innings and come to bat once.

This year, through the cooperation of the Joint Recreation Board, all games will be played at Community Park. A solution to having more boys play would be to expand the league. However, there are problems with fields, volunteer help and financing. If any organization is interested in this program they may contact me at 921-7166 or David Potts through the Princeton Township Police Department.

Consolidation for What?
To the Editor of Two Topics:
Following is the text of an open letter to Mayor Henry S. Patterson:

There have been a few symptoms to indicate that taxpayers in Princeton Borough as they approach the dog days may be faced with the threat of a proposal for consolidation of the Borough and the Township. Also, it appears there might be a time factor involved that would remove the possibility of reasonable opportunity for the community to inform itself and to deliver the question in the proper manner.

The primary question, of course, is why even talk about consolidation? If it is taken up now, it will be the third time in the past 20 years. What, if any, changes have occurred which justify even putting forward such a public question?

From the standpoint of the citizens and taxpayers, no changes are evident that would seem to call for giving the matter serious attention. The question, therefore, would boil down to what reasons there may be from the standpoint of politicians, officials, and employees? The burden of proof as always, is on the proponent.

In 1953, there was an attempt made to consolidate the Borough and the Township. This went so far as formulation of a plan upon which there was a vote in 1954. The year 1954 was a disaster for the plan. Despite the fact that polls taken during the preceding month indicated a heavy vote in favor of consolidation, the idea was rejected in the election by a three-to-two vote.

Of course, in 1953 we had two eminent University authorities on political science who said they played a leading role in the analysis and action on the subject of consolidation. I refer to Professors Carpenter and Sly. They were both ardent foes of the idea, based on a lifetime of study and action in that field.

As you no doubt recall, there was another public discussion of the subject in 1962.

Professor Sly repeatedly pointed out that in New Jersey from 1900 to 1962, there had been 180 separations of municipal units and but three consolidations.

He always stressed the fact that the problem in the municipal situation principally is one of moving from common interest to common purpose. He said this could be attempted through one of five different means, as follows:

1. Consolidation; 2. Annexation; 3. Intermunicipal agreements; 4. Use of special districts; and 5. Public authorities for consolidated services over a regional area.

The arguments for consolidation, as usual, were:

1. Similarity; 2. Need for similar services; and 3. Increase in efficiency and economy.

Most of the studies of the subject indicated that the first two were more than offset by the third. No evidence of a noteworthy possibility of increasing efficiency and economy was produced, either specifically on the basis of an analysis of items, or relatively in comparison with other places. The argument that there will be an increase in economy and efficiency in politics and government because of consolidation usually is unsound, even though it may seem plausible to emotionists who are afflicted with a power obsession or unhampered by experience or reason.

There is a great deal of experience on the subject, and it all indicates that the small unit, operated as largely as possible by amateurs, is the most economical and efficient pattern. The record, of course, clearly shows that once this principle is departed from and the seeds of a predatory bureaucracy are planted, the hired help just naturally get busy with empire building.

They work while you sleep. It means more hired help, more professional bureaucrats, and more expenditures, with less attention to real results and efficiency.

There is an effect of diminishing returns in putting things together in every field. It builds up faster in the public sector than elsewhere, because few people functioning in that sector are qualified for the kind of assessment necessary to protect the public interest. Also, the community consensus is not yet educated to apply the correct criteria to the actions and commissions of their agents.

The tax picture for consolidation has been unfavorable from the standpoint of the Borough each time. Now the pre-

THREE TEACHERS RETIRE

From Princeton Faculty. With a total of 99 years of service to the university, three senior members of Princeton University are retiring this month. They are: Dr. Gerhard Fankhauser, Dr. Harold Sprout, and Dr. Edward W. Suppiger.

Dr. Fankhauser, 177 Moore Street, an embryologist and cell biologist has been engaged for many years in research work on the development of amphibians. A native of Switzerland, he studied at the Gymnasium, Burgdorf, Switzerland, the University of Geneva, the University of Zurich, and the University of Berne, where he received his Ph.D. degree in 1924. He taught four years at Berne before coming to this country in 1929 as a Rockefeller Research Fellow at the University of Chicago.

In 1930 he had a Rockefeller grant at Yale University, and in 1931 joined the Princeton faculty as an assistant professor. He was advanced to Associate Professor in 1939 and to Professor in 1946. In 1956 he was appointed the Edward Grant Conklin Professor in Biology. Following his retirement, Dr. Fankhauser plans to remain in Princeton and to continue his research in the university laboratories.

Dr. Sprout, 83 McCosh Circle, is one of the nations leading authorities in the application of geographical and other environmental knowledge to the study of foreign policy and international relations. With his wife, Margaret Tuttle Sprout, he has written a number of works which have become standards in their field.

NINETY-NINE YEARS OF SERVICE END: These three Princeton University faculty members are retiring this year having served the university for a combined total of 99 years. Left to right are Dr. Gerhard Fankhauser, the Edwin Grant Conklin Professor of Biology; Dr. Harold Sprout, the Henry G. Bryant Professor of Geography and International Relations; and Dr. Edward W. Suppiger, Professor of

Professor Sprout was graduated from Oberlin College in 1924 and received his M.A. there the same year. He received his doctorate in political science and law from the University of Wisconsin in 1929. Prior to joining the Princeton faculty in 1931, he taught for two years in Stanford University's Department of Political Science. He was named the Henry Grier Bryant Professor in 1952. He has been closely associated with the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs.

Upon retirement Dr. Sprout will remain as a Research Associate in the university's Center of International Studies.

Dr. Suppiger, 95 College Road West, has had experience in three separate branches of the engineering profession. Beginning his career as a structural civil engineer, he earned recognition in aeronautical engineering research and development during World War II, and since the war has liminary propaganda says it is a little less unfavorable! Good money is actually spent for this kind of double talk! It, as usual, takes up the subject backward.

It does not touch the expenditures, their amount, the need, or their relative importance. We are supposed to ignore 80 percent of the subject, and allow ourselves to be brainwashed by a theoretical, academic piece of propaganda that cannot stand a common-sense analysis.

Talk about consolidation of municipal entities now is just another symptom of the taxinomania from which politicians and political employees are suffering as part of a nationwide madness.

Although there is much more to be said on the details of the problem, consolidation is not a subject important enough to the community to justify wasting time on it in 1969. It would seem much more to the advantage of the community to face to the waste and futility now piling up in the name of education, managed by over-zealous amateurs.

A proper assessment of public school expenditures by non-educatorians competent to do so probably would show that more than one-third of the total outlay cannot be justified. As the indication, let at the ridiculous increase put over in the tax bill the community has recently been handed. Also, remember that it is one of the fruits of consolidation.

AWARDS PRESENTED
By Western Electric, The Western Electric Annual Award for Excellence in Technical Writing has been presented to Jack Longfellow and Richard B. Palme of Western Electric, and to Professor John D. Wood of Lehigh University. The presentation was made at the company's Engineering Research Center on Carter Road, Hupewell Township.

Mr. Longfellow, Mr. Palme, and Mr. Wood received the award for their article, "The Effects of Electrode Material Properties on the Wear Ratio in Spark Machining," published in the February 1968 issue of the Journal of the Institute of Metals. The article is based on work conducted at the Engineering Research Center in connection with the Western Electric/Lehigh master's degree program. This work was the subject of Mr. Longfellow's master's thesis.

Mr. Longfellow, who is a member of the research staff at the Engineering Research Center, is a specialist in laser studies. He completed the master's degree program and received his degree in metallurgical engineering from Lehigh University in June 1966.

Mr. Palme, a research leader at the Center, has master's degrees in mechanical engineering and metallurgical engineering, both awarded by the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He is presently engaged in thermal energy studies and applied optics.

Dr. Wood, an associate professor of metallurgical and material sciences at Lehigh, has the master's of science and doctor of philosophy degrees from Lehigh. In addition to his professional duties, he also serves as a member of the university's Materials Research Center staff.

SALES RISE 14%
At Midwest Aluminum, Mid-east Aluminum Industries Corp. reported a 14 percent sales rise over the preceding year, at the firm's annual meeting held last week at the Princeton Inn.

Sales reached $1,241,657 for the fiscal year ending February 28, 1969, compared to $1,114,010. Net earnings amounted to $149,000, reflecting losses in both the fabricating and anodizing divisions.

Ray B. Sowers, president noted that "the year was a significant milestone with the merger of Midwest Aluminum, Mid-east Fabricating and Midwest Anodizing into a single corporation. He explained that "the fabricating division losses can be attributed to learning curves in serving many new, large volume, highly sophisticated customers. The division reacted to its problems and operated at a profit during the last four months," he added.

"Anodizing losses were greatly reduced through the introduction of production efficient

COOPER LENDS VIEWS
To a Motorcycle Workshop, Sherman Cooper, owner of Sherman Cooper's Cycle Ranch on Route 31, was invited as one of the motorcycle experts to participate in the two-day workshop conference on motorcycle safety held in Lebanon, Pa. Sponsored by the National Commission on Safety Education, the meetings were spent re-evaluating the tentative draft on motorcycle safety formulated by the commission at an earlier time in Washington.

As an experienced rider of 25 years and a motorcycle store owner, Mr. Cooper's views were sought on the need for motorcycle driver education. The workshop felt that because of the increasing numbers of motorcycles, and because evidence has shown that an educated driver is a safer one, a national program in grade-school and high school is needed for motorcycle training and safety.

State officials, driver safety teachers, and other experts in attendance agreed that the experience of cooperative, civic-minded motorcycle dealers will be sought in the future. Pamphlets on motorcycle safety and free instruction on proper riding methods are available at Sherman Cooper's Cycle Ranch.

SPEAKERS BUREAU BEGUN
By N.J. Technical Services. The New Jersey State Technical Services Office has established a speakers bureau to describe the program for obtaining the latest technical and scientific information for New Jersey's business and industrial enterprises.

Peter Blake, director of the service, and members of his staff will appear before educational, civic, service, and business groups throughout the state.

State Technical Services Act of 1965." It was designed to make available to the nation's private industry research and development programs.

It is hoped that the speakers bureau will also generate interest in new innovations and research, as well as make technical services programs more generally known.

New Jersey designated State Technical Services Agency is the Department of Conservation and Economic Development. For further information on the New Jersey State Technical Services Speak-ers Bureau, write the New Jersey Office of State Technical Services, PO Box 1889, Trenton, 08623, or telephone 292-1287.

Five of the cherry trees that line the approach to the Princeton Battle Monument have been cut down, "Cherry trees get old and die," commented Borough Engineer Donald Harney, "and these had lived their life span. They weren't diseased."

All five of the trees are on the south, or Stockton Street side of the drive, although Mr. Harney says a single tree on the north row may have to go.

I hope the Shade Tree Commission will decide to replace them," Mr. Harney said.

"WE'VE GIVEN THEM EVERYTHING... HAVEN'T WE?"

The best schooling, good clothes, a comfortable home... all these are important.

But don't they need answers to the big questions—such as Who is God? What is God? Where is God? What does He have to do with me?

Your children's sense of security and lasting happiness may well depend on being given good and useful answers to these important questions.

In the Christian Science Sunday School, children learn to know God, to feel a closeness to Him, and to turn to Him for the spiritual resources they need to strengthen and enrich their lives.

Isn't this something you would like to give your children? Why not bring them next Sunday morning at

Miss Burke: "Warm, Understanding Friend"

"Hey, Miss Burke! I just came by to pledge my support!"

The Princeton High School senior with the outstretched hand was Dan Schay and he interrupted Miss Florence Burke's first press interview after her appointment as acting principal of PHS.

"Listen, I'll need all the help I can get," Miss Burke grinned back at Dan and he said "You'll get all you need — don't worry!"

Ever since Miss Burke left her PHS math classroom for the administrative wing, back in 1958, the door to her office has been open to students.

"That door will continue to remain open to every student at Princeton High—even if it's a different door," Miss Burke said, after young Schay departed.

Team Effort: Florence Burke, assistant principal and dean of girls, was appointed acting principal of PHS last Tuesday by the school board following the rejection of certification for Raymond F. Male by the state board of education's board of examiners.

"This is going to be a team effort," Miss Burke emphasized. "I'm going to need the co-operation of my fellow-administrators and the whole PHS staff, including clerks, custodians, teachers, cafeteria workers—everybody. And of course the support and encouragement of students and the community. It's a big project, and I just happen to be explain of the team at this point in time."

And she means every word—that statement isn't just for public relations.

"You know, Al Seitz and Joe Drulis and I have finished out nine years together as a team—since 1950—and one of the big reasons I felt I could say 'yes' when I was asked to take this job, is that our administrative team had been working together so well for so long."

Miss Burke is referring to J. Alfred Seitz and Joseph Drulis, both assistant principals at PHS.

Congratulations. It embarrasses Florence Burke to talk about the "very heart-warming response" she has had

"HI, MISS BURKE, I'M BACK!" No matter how long they've been away, Princeton High alumni are always dropping in to say "Hi!" to Miss Florence Burke, who used to be assistant principal and dean of girls, and has just been named acting principal for '69-70.

from PHS students and townspeople since her appointment was announced last week.

"Kids came up to me in the supermarket, and this morning when I was upstairs in one of the stores and—well, you know, they sort of congratulated me. They offered me condolences, too," she grinned.

Warm student response isn't new for Miss Burke, of course, and the fact that she has been on the discipline side ("discipline" — and she squirms, "I wish there were some other word...") hasn't made a bit of difference.

In the days when clothes were regulated, it was Miss Burke who decided how short a skirt could be, and one of her staunchest alumnae friends remembers being sent home for wearing "horrors!" —clutted.

But she saw more than just the discipline side when she served for eight years as faculty adviser to Student Council and as director of activities.

Dealing with the boys and girls who run the dances, plan the club projects, put on the school plays, broadened her contacts with the kids and freed her from having to live with that rule book all the time.

In The Closet, Discipline? Well, there was the Halloween she ran into a girl walking down the hall carrying a full-size inflated skeleton.

"If you think you're going to walk around all day carrying THAT..." Miss Burke warned, "why not leave it in my office closet?"

The girl stowed it away in the closet, but when she returned to reclaim it, the idea of a skeleton in Miss Burke's closet seemed like a great idea. So she bought a flat one, the fading joint kind, and solemnly presented it to the assistant principal for permanent residence in her closet.

It still hangs there today and sometimes a ragged, honey leg sticks out to startle an unknowing visitor.

PHS and F. B. Miss Burke's entire career has been devoted and dedicated to Princeton High School. After grade school in Kingston—she still lives in Kingston—she was graduated from PHS in 1948. She spent a year taking extra courses, then went to Douglass College, returning to PHS to teach math, after receiving her degree in 1949.

She earned her master's in student personnel administration from Columbia in 1950 when she was appointed assistant dean of girls at PHS in 1958. Two years later, she was made assistant principal.

"I reluctantly gave up that math classroom," she says pensively. "I really loved the classroom..."

But the broader experience of Student Council and noisy hallways and the counselling she gave to all those girls, has been infinitely rewarding.

In 1966, the seniors dedicated their yearbook to her.

After listing her "tasteful guidance of school activities, her energetic direction of Student Council, the hours and effort she has devoted to school dances, her contagious enthusiasm for our projects," the dedication concludes,

"...because she has been a warm and understanding friend and advisor, because of the sparkle in her eye and because we like her class of '66 dedicates its yearbook to Miss Florence Burke."

News Of The THEATRES

"SHOT IN THE DARK"
Play, from Intime, Marcel Achard's play, "A Shot in the Dark," from which the Peter Sellers film was made, will open this Thursday at 8:30 p.m. in Murray Theatre under the flag of Summer Intime.

The farce will also play this Friday and Saturday and, skipping a weekend, again on July 17, 18 and 19.

John Vennema will play M. Savigne, the new French magistrate assigned to a case involving a nude maid, a dead chauffeur, a gun fired in the heat of passion. A lovers' quarrel—or?

Others in the comedy will be Deborah Savigne, who played Birdie in "The Little Foxes"; the maid Josefa, Beverly Rogers, who was Regina in "Foxes"; as Josefa's employer and Larry Strichman, production director for Summer Intime, who will be Savigne's cynical clerk.

Tickets are $2 on Thursdays and $3 on Fridays and Saturdays. They may be reserved by calling 452-8181 between 10 a.m. and 10 p.m. daily.

"THE LITTLE FOXES"
At Summer Intime, Summer Intime has begun this hot season with a strong production of "The Little Foxes," by Lillian Hellman, a play about "people who eat the earth and eat all the people on it" and the others, the "people who stand around and watch them eat it." The play is thirty years old, and the passage of time has brought with it sensitivities

MARGUERITE OR DEBBIE?
Actually, It's Deborah Truxal, who will sing the role of Marguerite in Gounod's "Faust" at the Open Air Theatre in Washington Crossing State Park, Miss Truxal, a Metropolitan Opera Audition finalist began her singing career in Princeton.

that are pained by more than the play's rampant greed. We must, in watching "The Little Foxes," as I hope many will do during the weekend of July 10-12 at Murray Theatre, look carefully at ourselves, at what we will accept on the stage if we are a re-conscious human beings.

We must deal first with a problem of moral drama: people are not this clearly good or evil. Miss Hellman gives us a fascinating set of opposites: the brutal against the sensitive. The sensitive, God knows, are always losing a war with the brutal, but the lines are not this clearly drawn.

Perhaps Intime might make the figures less extreme, and therefore less abstract, more like us. The Hubbards must be real enough for us to understand who they are and who we are. That is, we must see ourselves, at least in part, in them. Whenever we participate in art, we must deal with ourselves. We need to make a decision: Am I part of the problem on stage, or am I part of the solution?

A Rat and a Weasel. The Hubbards are not really beautiful enough to be foxes in this bestiary. Regina is a mink, sleek and quick; Horace is a drawing rat; Oscar a weasel. A family of rodents, they prey, would seem, upon birds: Birdie, the diplomatic victimized by marriage to Oscar, hables of kindness and of going home to the old life, before desperation; Horace, the victim by marriage of Regina, is a noble, though heart-stricken humanitarian; Alexandra, victimized by birth to Regina and Horace, is blooming with delicate vulnerability.

They are all, of course, human, and failing in some way to survive. Each, perhaps, is overwhelmed by the clarity of his own intentions; to be all good or all evil in this world means that survival is impossible. To be kind and gentle means that one is vulnerable. To be a conceiver and a cheat means that one will be connived and cheated against.

This production is filled with willful characters and strong acting. As the murderous Regina, Beverly Rogers is cool and adrelike, willing to sell her husband down the river so she can go up the river to Chicago, then Paris. Her frigidly drives love away. Larry Strickman's Ben sneers with all the subtlety of George Wallace, and with the same appeal.

John Vennema's controlled Oscar is simply greedy and weak; he is frustrated by wanting money, and by having it, or not enough of it. As Oscar's son, Leo, Andy Bloch is great well in his place as a tool of his elders. They are, however, less a family than a pack; each assists in the preservation of the family (the magnolia, no doubt) though that tree is obviously infested with poison ivy from roots to blossom.

Additional Credits. The other side of the cast, a different breed of true gentility, is equally definitive. Deborah Savage, the someone of Chekhov becomes a deeply pathetic Birdie Hubbard, drinking to forget what she remembers too well. The Alexandra of Giulia Pagano matures explicitly throughout the play; she is responsive, and appropriately fragile. Her sweetness matches Regina's venom. Geoff Peterson's Horace stands clearly above the family game of taking without remorse. While Regina, Ben, and Oscar seem to have been weaned on cigars, he has drunk the milk of kindness.

There are compelling exchanges between those who are human and those who are not. Implicit in this production, however, is the difference between what is affecting and what is affected. Robert Rockwell's direction, Richard B. Williams's set, and Marie Miller's costumes, though all admirably professional, deserve some intense reconsideration. Intime's stage and Miss Hellman's play would be well-served by a less limiting ambience. The attempt to Southernize the play with draws and porticoes defeats the universality of the greed it portrays. The South, we must realize, has no corner on that kind of bile, or any other.

Needless Racism. Finally, and regrettably, this play about evil is in itself evil. It is simply impossible to accept as needful and imperative the racism of the play, and I must protest Intime's apparent feeling that the parts of Cal and Addie are inoffensive enough to present intact with shuffle and smile. That the Hubbards are racists is acceptable as valid extension of their origins and heritage, however deplorable. But one hopes that Princeton audiences are far beyond accepting vile stereotypes, however integral they may seem to the work of art. They are not needed. Again, we must all decide whether we are part of the problem or part of the solution. No compromises are acceptable, however enlightened we may feel them to be. Here, sadly, Intime is part of the problem. There are no innocent degrees of degradation, and I do feel that the play will not

See the play, knowing that what one accepts on the stage in some way defines the audience. As we must reject the evil of greed and manipulative aristocratic autocracy, it would be a supreme hypocrisy to accept simultaneously the evil of racism, to "stand around and watch" those who would "eat the earth and all the people on it."

IT'S NEW

To Us

ADVERTISING SLIGHTLY INTO Puerto Rican Foods. For the past three weeks, the A & P in Princeton Shopping Center has carried a supply of Puerto Rican vegetables—intriguing and strange items that are being brought up here in the United Fruit and Stand Fruit ships.

You'll be in the mood to pioneer a little one of these days' and so we want to introduce you to chayota, for squash (29¢ per pound), a squash like vegetable with a very delicate taste. You boil it and serve it with butter — just as you usually do with potatoes or squash.

And there's batata — very similar to our sweet potatoes. It is a heavy, coarse-skinned vegetable which the Puerto Ricans usually serve boiled or mashed. Or try calabaza, a big, five-or-six pound root-like vegetable (2 lbs. for 39¢) which produce manager Leo Andreoli says is boiled for "eight hours!" This is something like a pumpkin; further than that we're not prepared to go.

Venturing on, there are two deep, dark Caribbean foods, malanga and culantra, which are very, very native. The latter is a squash. More than this, a Puerto Rican friend of ours was unable to say.

There's a basket full of ajices, which you will immediately recognize as peppers. This is a pod size little pepper — some orange, some yellow, and as wrinkled as a cone. The Puerto Ricans throw them into various recipes — in rice, for instance — and you'll find they are pretty hot. (98¢ per lb.)

Several fruits from the Caribbean are on hand, too. Yellow brown plantains ("platanos") which look like gross bananas. To serve them as a side dish, you slice them with diagonal slant strokes into fairly thick pieces, fry in deep fat, drain and flatten them a little — then put them back into the oil or fat for a few minutes to make them crisp. Serve them with rice dishes.

Or, for variety, slice the plantains as slim as a potato chip—cutting straight across, deep fry, drain and salt. Serve as a snack.
The A & P also has mangoes from Haiti. When they are ripe, they are as soft as a peach and the skin has a reddish tinge, spotted here and there. One of Mr. Andreoli's customers, a woman from Hawaii, told him how she likes mangoes best—She peels the skin away and eats the fruit right down to the long, flat pit.

GENTLE GIFTS

In Beautiful Tins, if you've managed to square away time for two hours of weekly volunteer work at Merwick, you know the enthusiasm a small gift can generate in an elderly person's routine, small world. Thinking of this, we stopped in at Louise Maas' fragrant shop on Palmer Square where we were hard put to choose between the tea biscuits and cookies packed so very attractively in the tin boxes that the old dears use to squirrel away their "bitties."

The cookies, in regular and dietetic packs, are hospitably shared when the elderly gather in twos and threes in each other's rooms or when they have visitors. So your small gift goes a long, cheery way.

From Denmark, Louise Maas has the Kjeldsen butter cookies, crumbly and not too sweet. Peek Frean's assorted biscuits from London, come in square or round tins. Yellow prim roses, for instance, decorate the box.

And there's the all-butter "Festival" shortbread from Canada, and prettily packed dietetic cookies from the Cookie Jar.

Miss Maas, who also has a lip-licking selection of cookies in trays behind the glass counter if you want to keep the beautiful boxes constantly filled, says there is a run on her cookie department. "We sold 12 dozen boxes today!" They are so good, we are not surprised.

FOR SUMMER DINING

From Happy House. We were wondering the other day whether the very delicately designed and inexpensive glassware of today will be a collector's item in our grandchildren's day, becoming in time as rare and valuable as the old Salem County glassware. The selection at Happy House in Princeton Shopping Center started us on this trend of thought. Much of the glassware is imported, coming in some instances from beyond the Iron Curtain into Poland. The patterns range from sturdy replicas of colonial designs to light, nearly floating shapes with a lovely bell tone when you flick the glass with your finger.

Cordial sets in Italian glass come in shades of amber, or green or Copenhagen blue. The decanter is a slim-necked, fat bellied teardrop, matched by six small glasses. ($5.95 the set). Next are — coffee glasses, clear colored, gold rimmed, shaped like a small mug. ($1.49, complete with recipe.)

Happy House carries the Colony glass works' Early American crown thumbprint pattern in a sturdy glass that bespeaks of walnut waistcoat and Governor Bradford. You'll find glasses, plates, sherberts, and so on — in a choice of colors such as yellow-green, amber, or smoke blue.

We noticed covered glass dishes, just the right size for relishes and spreads when you are eating outdoors. (From $2 up). Some of these are from Poland. A particularly attractive dish in clear glass is topped with a teardrop lid of forest green glass. A very delicate piece.

Happy House has a great selection of glass ski mugs, punch mugs, pitchers; metal topped cocktail shakers (12 oz. up to 12-oz. sizes) and punch bowls with ladies and matching glasses. Plus the usual "right" glasses for the drinks you are serving. The cantaners are well designed and understated.

a world... and there is no
world beyond it."

PLAYHOUSE:
"Popi (now playing). Mostly,
"Popi" is a comedy about family relationships — "Life with Father" in the slums — with Alan Arkin in the title role.
Arkin has made his screen reputation playing eccentric characters. He was the kooky
Soviet savior in "The Russians Are Coming," the compassionate deaf mute in "The Heart Is a Lonely Hunter." Now, he is Abraham Rodriguez, the determined Puerto Rican father in Spanish Harlem who nearly kills his children through his obsessive desire to secure a decent start in life for them.
"I want them to feel high in their shoes," he says.

His outlook has a wry, sometimes elusiveness humor that filters a protest against the way he has been short-changed by life. Beneath his comic portrayal are glimpses of the underlying violence and rot of the slum community.

Rita Moreno is on screen
as Rodriguez's girl friend, fleshing out the part well. Puerto Rican and Cuban residents of the area fill in for minor roles, sketching the ethnic background. Miguel Alejandro and Ruben Figueroa, both selected for the children's roles
from a group of Spanish Harlem school children, do a fine job.

GARDEN & PRINCE

Finian's Rainbow (starts
Thursday), a well-received Broadway play 20 years ago, has finally made it to the screen, and thanks to the imaginative treatment by the filmmakers, has retained most of its charm.

The old time plot, which has an Irishman named Finian steal a pot of gold from a leprechaun and take off for America with his young daughter, still stands up well. With the hits as Rodriguez's girl friend, fleshing out the part well. Puerto Rican and Cuban residents of the area fill in for minor roles, sketching the ethnic background. Miguel Alejandro
and Ruben Figueroa, both selected for the children's roles
from a group of Spanish Harlem school children, do a fine
job.

The musical score, with songs like "That Old Devil Moon," "If This Isn't Love," and "When I'm Not Near the Girl I Love," has not suffered either. The alert, who know the song lyrics, may detect an accusmal modernized lyric. In

"If This Isn't Love," for example, a reference to Carmen Miranda has been switched to Zsa
Zsa Gabor. Anyone remember
Carmen Miranda?

The durable Fred Astaire is Finian, and he can still whip through those dance routines effortlessly. Pop singer, Petula Clark, in her film debut, is his daughter, and Keenan Wynn, the bigoted senator. All in all it's a well rounded musical in the classic, old fashioned style.

SPORTS In Princeton

FOUR TEAMS ADVANCE
In Springdale Tournament.
Four teams of twosomes advanced last weekend in the Governors' Cup tournament at the Springdale Golf Club. Eight entries qualified Saturday and match play began the following day.

The twosome of Karl Pettit Jr. and his son-in-law, Bryce Chase, won low net honors with a best ball of 58—19 under par. Full handicaps were used.

In Sunday's action, however, Pettit and Chase were eliminated 3 and 1, by Ross Shrader and Dick Liebler. They had qualified with a 62.

In other matches, Ken Dawes and Ed Cowlin (net 62) defeated the defending champions, Ralph Allaire and Dean Chase (net 63), 2 and 1; Ronald Smith and Ed Johnson (net 63) eliminated Harry Vukowich and Hal Meran (net 61) on the 14th green, 3 and 4; and Maury Mather and Harold Houghton (net 64) defeated Elton Peterson and B. E. Bregeisen (net 62), 2 and 1.

Semi-finals of the tournament are scheduled for Saturday, July 12. The final round will be held the following day.

Giants-Eagles Game Worth $1 Million to Charity

The New York Giants-Philadelphia Eagles football game, staged here each summer under sponsorship of the New Jersey Chamber of Commerce, is now a million-dollar enterprise.

Since the two NFL rivals first met in Palmer Stadium seven years ago, proceeds for charity have netted $1,063,000. Last year, more than $153,000 was raised for charities throughout the state and for youth, sports and community service programs backed by the Junior Chamber.

Some $97,000 went to about 300 charities. An additional $40,000 was allocated to various Jaycee projects, while $115,000 was added to the Chamber's Scholarship fund at Rutgers. Eight such awards, worth $2,000 each, are given to incoming freshmen at each of the State University's four divisions.

—At New Brunswick, Douglass, Newark and Camden. Princeton's Jaycee chapter was allocated the largest total among more than 175 units in New Jersey, receiving $4,000. Second in line was Newark, the largest city in the state, which was given $2,500.

About a dozen educational, charitable and welfare organizations in the Princeton area were beneficiaries of the total distributed here. The largest amount—$1,300—went for scholarships for Princeton area residents attending Mercer County Community College. The Youth Employment Service was another organization singled out by the Jaycees. Contributions from the Jaycees resulting from the 1968 game also went to the YMCA, College of the Holy Spirit, Family Service, Boy Scouts, Junior Museum, First Aid Unit and Rescue Squad, Princeton Study Center, Foster Parents, and the Institute of Applied Politics at Trenton State. Since that first game in 1962, the Princeton Chapter has raised $700,000 for charitable allocation.

Tickets for the 1969 game, to be played Saturday, August 30, are being sold this year at $8, $6 and $4. They may be ordered by telephone (924-0100) Monday through Friday from 9 to 5, or by mail through the Jaycee Football Classic, P.O. Box 462, Princeton. A 50-cent handling charge should be added to mail orders. They are also on sale at the University Store, Hinkson's and Cousins.

It's New To Us

Moving on from glass to the sturdiness of steel, we were struck by the feeling that the designers of sterling silver flatware have simply not kept pace with the artists who are at work on patterns for stainless steel. The display at Happy House will startle you with the imagination and elegance of the piece settings. The prices range around $15 and $18 a 24-piece set.

There's a set etched with deep horizontal scrolls; another in a floating basket weave; another cut in a slim streamline. One is simply marked off by several deep bands around the handles; below is a set with inserts of ebony black. They are all extremely attractive.

Happy House has experienced a big demand for its Ronson Veriflame table Chef—the portable gas range that sits so helpfully on your buffet or patio table. It runs on butane gas, which burns very cleanly—and if you are among those who doubt the value of charcoal smoke in your meats, this is your substitute grill. It's attractive, easy to load, and it comes in single or double units with controls for cooking temperatures. ($29.95 or $44.95)
Happy House also has an amusing variety of salad bowls, ranging from Mexican ceramics to stained woods. If you're preparing cheese fondue, you'll need a ceramic pot; if it's beef on the menu, you'll need the steel pot—and the shop has them in all sizes and weights.

As a final thought, Happy

House has become a little concerned over whether or not stainless steel carving knives keep a sharp edge. As they got deeper into the controversy, they began to favor steel. You'll see a truly wonderful assortment of professional chef's knives of high carbon steel made in France.

The knives, with devilishly pointed tips and fairly wide blades, are available in all sizes for all purposes you can think of short of murder. The price range from $1.99 up to about $8. "Sabatier" is the brand name.

Only 5 minutes from the center of town, this well-built one-story home has large living room, dining room, kitchen with many cabinets and breakfast bar, study, 3 bedrooms, 2 baths, big basement. Beautiful trees and shrubs around yard, PLUS a very large swimming pool warranted to make Summer wonderful! $45,000

PRECIOUS . . . a darling house — exactly suited to a romantic couple, or to be a wedding present. Almost hidden behind its trees and hedges, as you drive by you get a glimpse of bricks and a rugged shake roof that tells its story of quality and charm. On Province Line Road, near Beden's Brook, here has living room, dining room, den with beamed ceiling, music room with slate floor, kitchen, and (upstairs) 4 bedrooms and 1 bath (*) $49,500

ONLY 10 MINUTES from Princeton, on one-and-a-half beautifully landscaped acres, this long, low, spacious home was designed to make living in the country a real pleasure. Living and dining rooms are large & airy, and any housewife will envy the owner of the marvelous kitchen, with lots of room for family breakfast and lunches, 3 big bedrooms, 2 full baths, a study (or 4th bedroom) 2 powder rooms. (*) $68,900

GROWING FAMILY? . . . Here is a sprawling one-story house with a small expansion attic — plenty of space to add 2 more bedrooms when the baby comes. At present, the house has large (15'x30') living room, with fireplace, separate dining room, big kitchen (17'9"x14'), paneled study, a master bedroom 19'x15', two other bedrooms 14'x15', and huge closets with many built-ins. Two full baths. Maid's room has been converted into an extra kitchen, but could easily be changed into a family room or 4th bedroom as there is a bathroom adjoining. (*) $79,500

TRULY RURAL . . . not far from the Delaware River, hidden in a cove of great old rural stone trees. This 200-year-old fieldstone farm house is already restored and modernized, 4.9 acres of land, with fruit trees, too! The house has a spacious foyer, with a charming powder room to the left. To the right, a large living room with fireplace. The paneled library, too, has a fireplace. There is a very big dining room, a kitchen and a large modern kitchen with ample breakfast space and a huge fireplace. Second floor: 4 bedrooms, 2 baths. Third floor: 2 bedrooms, 1 bath, 3-car garage. Big swimming pool. (*) $76,500

FOR MODERN LIVING . . . central air-conditioning, of course, for comfort; a huge living room in a wing by itself, so that it's a place to live in, not a passageway; master bedroom study and bath (for privacy) on the far side of the house, away from the children and their TV; a big kitchen so gleaming and modern that every housewife will yearn for a separate dining room with fireplace. A spacious family room with powder room, and 3 more bedrooms and bath. $75,000

HORSES! . . . HORSES! — only a short drive from Princeton, here are 11 acres in a very nice, very horse countryside. There's a big barn, too, a very solid structure that needs no siding but is large enough for a box stall and a tack room. The land is rolling, with many trees and shrubs, but it's not a forest — you can really look over your own acres, and enjoy the view. The old farm house has a sun porch (which could be a new foyer) and large paneled living room, a great big, comfortable modern kitchen, bedroom and bath on the first floor. Upstairs, there is now a large apartment, with its own entrance, which brings in more than enough to pay taxes, but which could easily be changed back into 4 bedrooms and bath. (*) $53,500

LIVE IN YOUR OWN PARK . . . flowering shrubs, towering trees, smooth lawns . . . And all Summer long, enjoy the big swimming pool, which is far enough away from the house so that the debauch of childish clamor lingers in the great outdoors. Large paneled family room with a working bar. Foyer, living room with fireplace, separate dining room with doors leading to a beautiful flagstone terrace, modern kitchen with eat-in facilities and a large screened porch which can be glass-enclosed and heated in the Winter. 5 bedrooms and 4 baths, plus a roughed-in 6th bedroom and bath. Ample storage attic. Big closets. Let us show you this lovely home in Edgerstown . . . soon! $97,500

MAGNIFICENT . . . On its own 5 acres, in a fine Princeton location, this great house stands a wing back from the street. Lefly, shaggy trees and beautiful gardens surround it. Made of stone, 18 inches thick, with high ceilings and tall windows, it stays cool and quiet all through the Summer. Huge living room, with fireplace; banquet hall (dining room is inadequate) with fireplace; butler's pantry with cupboards for 30 place settings; fine big kitchen and powder room. Upstairs: 5 master bedrooms, 3 maid's rooms, 4 baths. $169,500
